

European Journal of Mental Health

The European Journal of Mental Health (EJMH) is a

- free of charges
- open-access
- international
- interdisciplinary
- peer-reviewed

scientific journal founded in Hungary in 2006 by Semmelweis University Institute of Mental Health.

EJMH publishes research in medical, social and behavioral sciences focusing on mental health, personal and relational well-being, and quality of life. Our journal promotes a broader understanding of mental health and well-being through developmental and life-course perspectives, relational and systemic approaches, social-ecological views, and interdisciplinary thinking. It provides a platform for novel and unique theoretical and empirical findings and welcomes manuscripts from all fields of psychology, psychiatry, other health sciences, sociology, social work, social policy, education, special education, human ecology, and media sciences. SUBMIT A MANUSCRIPT:

We are inviting new quantitative and qualitative studies, as well as comprehensive (narrative, scoping and systematic) literature reviews and meta-analyses inspired by theoretical or practical dilemmas. EJMH also welcomes perspective articles on fundamental concepts or prevalent ideas in a field (especially about inter- and transdisciplinary thinking on mental health issues). Publishing in EJMH is open-access and free of any charges. Look at our Author's Guidelines! ►

PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM – INSPIRING SCIENCE IN A NETWORK:

We believe that the key to inspire high-quality research and publications is an international and interdisciplinary network of scientists. As a free open-access journal, we rely on qualified researchers' active participation in pre-screening and double-blind reviewing of the manuscripts. Reviewers may be independent experts holding a doctoral degree or having an equivalent amount of research experience. Would you consider reviewing mental health-related articles? Are you interested in becoming an Editorial Board Member of EJMH? Get in touch with our Editorial Office! ►
